

PUBLIC LEDGER

FOURTH YEAR. MAYSVILLE, KY., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1895.

ONE CENT.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "on time," for it is a well-known fact that he can pass over his counter free gifts of dry goods, and other articles, and yet sustain a business concern. Its columns are in stock in trade and advertising is a means of profit, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls

Upon THE LEDGER for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to give the following terms:

For Notes of Snappers.

exclusions, lists, or other public editorials, taken with a few changes, for other newspapers, will be granted; but THE LEDGER will charge $10 per line, and, heretofore, has done so.

Does Not Include

notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.

Disagreements are unpleasant. The price of Letters to the Editor in THE LEDGER is 10 cents for the first insertion, and 5 cents for each subsequent insertion. A customer orders "Five-line local insertion in the paper." It is understood that he means to say to the bookkeeper, But he forgets that the paper is 10 cents a copy for two months—50 times—the bill is $5.00. This is a "kick" and a controversy, full and probably with an icy flavor. Now, to obviate such difficulties, we shall not accept notices to be accepted hereafter. Let's have a written agreement at the outset, and the termination will be pleasant all around.

All matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock on the morning of each day.

What's Santa bringing to our house?

He brought me a big red sled.

He brought me a shiny new wagon;

A shiny new goat got a sack.

That grew once on some poor seal's back.

My brother got two smokin' sets,

An' a lookin' tie

I guess his sweethearts give him that;

He'll wear it, or she'll wear it,

But I'll wear all the lot.

Was the present that my papa got.

They all was of the "useful" kind—

A easy chair—that mad him mad.

It hinted he was old—

but the one that made him mad for sure

Was a ticket for the Keeley cure!

The old contest over the prohibition election at Mayslick will be heard in the court of Appeals March 29th. An election was held in the spring of '94, after Sam Jones had shaken the Park City up as it never had been before, and as a result the town went dry by a few votes. The "wets" contested the election on the ground that it was unconstitutional and not held according to law. The Contesting Board decided in favor of the "wets" and it was appealed to the Circuit Court. Judge W. E. Settle sustained the lower court. An appeal was taken to the Court of Appeals. The decision is awaited with no little interest, for it will settle the question of whether or not whisky can be sold in several towns of the state.

We thank thee for the forewarning of the mortgage upon our homes, for the inability to pay taxes or rent. We thank thee for our grocerman by the trademark of the necessities of life. We thank thee, oh Lord Grover, for the idle workshops and for the many bankrupts all over our land. We thank thee for the poverty, murder, prostitution and crime, that hast sent among us bearing thy trademark.

We thank thee for ninety cents a day instead of two dollars. We thank thee for fifty cents per bushel for wheat, forty cents per head for sheep. We thank thee for the Sugar Trust, the Whisky Trust, the Coal Trust, and all other combinations of the rich to rob the producer and the poor.

Ob! Almighty Grover, how kind thou art to us, we pray thee for all these blessings. We know how faithful thou hast been to the grand old party, to our country and her people, and how faithful we have been to thee. We beg thee and implore thee, oh Grover, to come before the people again for re-election in '96, for we cannot do without thee, and thou knowest how we will be when thou pullest the string that we may stand, while thou hast us bearing thy trademark.

We thank thee for thy swollen foot, we feel the deepest sympathy for thy affliction.

We pray thee to intercede with the government of Congress to better the condition of the country or the people.

We pray thee for Free trade, for state banks, for state rights, that all the outstanding currency of whatever form it may be shall be made redeemable in gold and thus add to the luster of our great and noble party so indelibly written in the hearts of the people. We pray thee, oh Almighty Grover, to lend all thy energy and power to wreck that monster movement of the people for reform. We thank thee to wreck and destroy that hell-born, un-American organization, called the A. P. A., that is striving to save our country and institutions from wreck and ruin and all other organizations favoring the rich.

We pray thee for state rights, that all the outstanding currency of whatever form it may be shall be made redeemable in gold and thus add to the luster of our great and noble party so indelibly written in the hearts of the people. We pray thee to intercede with the government of Congress to better the condition of the country or the people.

We thank thee to be true, to be faithful to our party, the Trusts and all forms of monopolies against the people.

We thank thee to stamp every Union soldier as a traitor, that they may learn to love and adore you. We pray thee to bless and guide us through all the hardships of property held in common, and to turn us to sources of comfort and happiness.

Brothers are similar to other people—they like to be asked, and when they see an advertisement in THE LEDGER they naturally regard it as an invitation to call. No one likes to go where he is not invited or wanted.

We would ask thee, our Lord Grover, to bless us, bless our children with an empty and blank Christmas, permit them to view the tempting show windows with tears of blessings for them in their eyes; let them look with eager eyes and aching hearts at the children of the monopolist, who go away heavy laden with all that money can afford. What a comfort, what a blessing thou hast provided for the poor! What happy hearts will beat the breasts of our children Christmas morning when they arise to find that St. Nicholas has passed by them.

We thank thee, Lord Grover, to send no Ministers or diplomats to any foreign ports that will not pull down the American Flag, oppose all republics, aid and abet all monarchies, swallow any and all insults from foreign powers; all this will go to embellish thy record and that of our grand old party.

We would ask thee, Lord Grover, to keep the bond mills grinding out burdens for the people to endure, protect Carisle's bond incubator, for a public debt is a public blessing.

In conclusion, we implore thee, Lord Grover, to avail yourself of the opportunities and materials at hand, and build a monument to thyself.

Build it high and high, that far-off nations may see and learn to honor and adore us as we are your servants do.

Build it of bold letters around the base, the pension veterans and the enemy toward the defender of our country, that thy kindness and love for country, her people and heroes, may become the watchword for the old soldiers, our empty coffins, our broken limbs, our maimed bodies, our pettled hours.

We thank thee, oh Lord Grover, to our Congress, for our ideas, for our inability to find work or bread. We thank thee, oh Grover, that thou permittest us to roam the streets and public highways, barefooted and naked in mid winter, begging for work, begging for bread. We enjoy these blessings so much. We praise thee, oh Lord Grover, that thou hast so wisely provided for our happiness, as to enable our wives to sit up all night patching and mending our clothes, while we lay in bed and listen to the sweet musical voices of our hungry and shivering children crying for bread, crying for warmth, crying for toys and comfort and admiration for thee.

We thank thee for the forewarning of the mortgage upon our homes, for the inability to pay taxes or rent. We thank thee for our grocerman by the trademark of the necessities of life. AMERICA FOR AMERICANS & AMERICANS

MCKINLEY AND WILSON ABROAD.

In 1890 William McKinley was burned in effigy in the English manufacturing city of Sheffield; but in 1894 William L. Wilson was dined and wined in London because he is the author of a Free-trade Tariff Bill. These are significant facts.

WHAT the country needs at the head of its financial affairs is a man whose front name is JOHN SHERMAN.

The Carlisle Bill which was to "reform" the currency system and make money largely out of poor rags and worse promises, appears to have struck a knot.

The price of the last $50,000,000 of bonds sold by Secretary CARLISLE has declined to less than the parties paid for them. What faith people have in Democratic financing, to be sure!

WILL THE MAYSVILLE PUBLIC LEDGER please refrain from charging the present uncomfortably heavy fall of the beautiful to the malign influence of the new Tariff Bill?—Corington Commonwealth.

Glad you reminded us of it; but everything, wages especially, appears to be falling under "the malign influence," etc.

This talk about Colonel BRAZLEY for Vice-President is foolish. The country is looking to Colonel DICK WATTS to lead the Republican ticket, and Kentuckians cannot expect to have both first and second place.—Courier-Journal.

Well, there isn't a Republican in Kentucky who wouldn't make a more effective "head" to the Government than the present ponderous ponderosity who ponders over his ponderousness in the White House.

One of the sophisms of Free-trade is at with a reduced Tariff one may buy necessities at a lower price than under Protective Tariff. If this be true it could stand the test of illustration, probably no article is in more common use than starch, and for this reason we may use it for an illustration, a rate of duty on starch under the Kinley Law was 2 cents per pound but was reduced to 1 cent per pound by the present Tariff. Considering these rates to an ad valorem basis the duty at 2 cents per pound mounted to a rate of 84.78¢ or cents per pound to a rate of 63.28¢, or reduction of 21 per cent. According theorists like Professor WILSON, the rate of starch to the consumer should be fallen off 21 per cent, because the trader says that a reduction in Tariffs means the same reduction in the price commodities.

It has the price of starch dropped since the passage of the Gorman law? It is not necessary to tell housekeepers that it hasn't. The price of starch last year was 8 cents per pound and it is today 8 cents per pound, so where does the reduction come in? If there is a reduction to the retailer the consumer doesn't benefit by it; to all intents and purposes those who buy are no better off under the Gorman law than under the McKinley Law. Moreover, under the McKinley Law we manufactured more than enough starch for our own use and exported 22,887,066 pounds, worth $727,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1894; and there was money or wages with which to buy under the McKinley Law that the people have not under the Gorman Law.

CONFIRMED.

Decree Forbidding Catholics to Join Secret Societies.

Mgr. Satolli Authorizes the Publication of Brief Statement.

Grand Chancellor J. F. Hickey, of Minnesota, Challenges the Truth of Rev. Messmer's Assertion About the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst and his methods without reserve.

"I opposed Dr. Parkhurst," said he, "because I did not think his methods practical and because I looked upon him as being a whitewasher. The one-headed police force is simply absurd, and would put in the hands of the man at the head of that department a power that he might use to the great disadvantage of the forces. His ideas regarding secret societies are visionary and therefore of no use. He has done a great deal of good, of course, but I believe his idea is swollen by the fatuity of the New York press. His ideas regarding the suppression of crime are longer supporting but futile. He is continually saying 'must,' and to this practical men not only take exceptions, but they criticize it harshly."

The archbishops of the United States have taken steps to write to three societies, namely the Odd Fellows, Sons of Temperance and the Knights of Pythias. The archbishops decided that the whole question should be submitted to the apostolic see.

Cardinal Mooney to Mgr. Satolli, the action of the general congregation of cardinals, to whom his decree was communicated, is made fully considering carefully the matter made a decree. This decree his holiness fully confirmed and gave it complete effect. The decree is, therefore, transmitted to all archbishops, bishops and other officers of the Catholic Church by them encircled in letters. Mgr. Satolli has acted merely as a medium of transmission. But, in view of contradictory and confusing reports emanating from various parts of the country, the facts are not yet clearly stated.

Rev. Mr. M. J. Byrne, Jan. 2. The following letter was mailed in this city Monday, being given to the Associated press at the same time.

ROBERT PAUL, M. D., Dec. 31, 1893.—
HON. PAUL BROWNE, Congressman from Wis.—Right Reverend Sir: Your interview dated Green Bay Wis., Dec. 29, and reported in the Milwaukee Journal, is most interesting. The Roman church, putting the blame of the Odd Fellows and the Knights of Pythias, is entirely wrong. You say that you offer an argument in justification of the ban. Your argument is as follows: There are many degrees in these secret societies, belonging to the lower degrees of any of these secret societies, as in those degrees men are only partially initiated, and are not in full pleasure. But in the higher degrees the principles and teachings of these societies are disclosed. The Roman church, if it is true, is the only one that has the right to decide.

My demands, made with the greatest respect, are: That you prove that a radical difference exists as to principles and practice between the lower and higher degrees of any of these secret societies by the pope or the cardinals.

I may add, though begging a reply to your question, that you will not be able to prove that the higher degrees are anti-Christian, a charge which even the Roman church itself has not made.

As you will be given to the public press, I consider it my privilege and duty to give this reply the same publication.

RESPECTFULLY,
J. P. HILLCROSS,
Grand Chan. K. of P. Minnesots.

PLATT ON PARKHURST.

The Ex-Senator Regards the Preacher's Scheme.

WILKESBORO, Pa., Jan. 2.—Ex-

United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, of New York, who is here visiting relatives, in an interview with reporter Monday night, discussed Rev. Dr. Parkhurst and his methods without reserve.

"I opposed Dr. Parkhurst," said he, "because I did not think his methods practical and because I looked upon him as being a whitewasher. The one-headed police force is simply absurd, and would put in the hands of the man at the head of that department a power that he might use to the great disadvantage of the forces. His ideas regarding secret societies are visionary and therefore of no use. He has done a great deal of good, of course, but I believe his idea is swollen by the fatuity of the New York press."

His ideas regarding the suppression of crime are longer supporting but futile. He is continually saying 'must,' and to this practical men not only take exceptions, but they criticize it harshly."

Mr. Platt refused to discuss the present attack upon him by a republican newspaper in New York.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

A Review of the situation of the Pittsburg, Pa., Bank.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 2.—A review of the industrial situation shows an encouraging outlook in this section for the coming year. There is a heavy increase in the number of iron and steel mills in operation, and the mills in operation two years ago less than one-half of the window-glass factories were running, three-fourths are in operation now. With flint-glass factories the outlook is hopeful, and the demand for manufactured products is the steady increase in the demand for manufactured products. With the exception of the Beaver Falls nail-mill, all the nail-mills are in operation, and the demand for nail is at a standstill. Manufacturers are all hopeful of a busy year.

He became enraged when a neighbor said to him: "You are going to take the baby home with her." He picked up a pair of scissars and threatened them at the girl. The neighbors stood by the baby on the head, causing instant death.

Woman Suicide.

They became enraged when a neighbor said she was going to take the baby home with her. He picked up a pair of scissars and threatened them at the girl. The neighbors stood by the baby on the head, causing instant death.

Respectfully yours,

WHITE HOUSE.

Reception Given by President and Mrs. Cleveland.

Cleveland Was at Home on New Years to all the World.

The Representatives of Foreign Nations Greeted the President in the Name of Their Heads—Diplomatic Breakfast at Secretary Gresham's.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The president was at home in all the world who chose to visit the white house Tuesday, and his official family repeated the annual lesson in the simplicity and impressiveness of American republic institutions in the United States.

The representatives of foreign powers, in the splendor of their court dress, greeted the president in the names of their rulers; the army and navy paid their respects to their commanding officers; the members of congress to their respective, the federal officials to the head of the government and the public at large to the chief citizen of the nation.

In minor details alone did Tuesday's reception differ from its predecessor. On Washington's the first president, officially inaugurated the national ceremony in New York nearly one hundred and four years ago. The old Dutch custom so pleased him that he inquired whether it was an establishment or custom, and on being informed that the day was always honored in New York, he exclaimed:

NEW YEAR'S TRAGEDY.

Exercised Fratricide and Suicide of an Insane Man.

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 2.—The new year has opened with a double homicide, the victim being Mrs. Cora Trumbly and her eight-months-old baby. The murderer is Daniel J. Trumbly, the woman's husband.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday morning an alarm of fire called the fire department to the residence of Daniel J. Trumbly.

After a hard fight the fire was gotten under control. On entering a bedroom down stairs, Mrs. Trumbly was found lying on her bed with her feet partially buried. Her throat was cut from ear to ear, and the bed clothing was covered with blood.

At the foot of the bed was found her baby, who had evidently been smothered. The signs of violence were found on the body.

Trumbly is about 23 years of age. He was formerly a prosperous fish dealer, and afterward went into the lumber business. For the past two years he has been engaged in the practice of medicine. After cutting his wife's throat Trumbly satirized the bed clothing with keroseen and then set fire to it.

Trumbly had another child, a boy of ten years, whom he left at the residence of his brother during the time of this wife's last seen of the murderer. After the discovery of the crime Tuesday morning search was begun for Trumbly, and at 11:30 o'clock his body was found in a well at Essexville, a suburb of Bay City. He had committed suicide by drowning.

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 2.—H. M. S. Blenheim, with the body of the late Sir John Thompson on board, arrived at the mouth of the harbor at 10:30 Tuesday morning in a rainstorm, and ran almost opposite the York harbor entrance. The first gun was fired by the hand of the York's crew, followed by the salvoes of the York's crew, and followed by all the military and militia dignitaries, proceeded to the parliament building, where the body is now interred in the crypt of the national chamber. At the close of the line of the procession, despite the tremendous rainstorm, the streets were lined ten and twelve deep with the rubber-coated crowd of anxious citizens.

The coffin was taken from the steamer and eight horses pulled up a granite carriage, to which were attached four black horses. Two hundred men from the king's regiment formed a guard of honor to the right and left of the hearse, the funeral procession having ended by the hand of the king's regiment, and followed by all the military and militia dignitaries, proceeded to the parliament building, where the body is now interred in the crypt of the national chamber.

At the close of the line of the procession, despite the tremendous rainstorm, the streets were lined ten and twelve deep with the rubber-coated crowd of anxious citizens.
